AWP 101
WRITING About SCIENCE

Open Enrollment 2021
(remote course)

Summer Session I
Tue & Thu
8:00 am - 10:50 am

Can you write about science and engage in current debate in science to persuade your audience?

This intensive writing course is designed to give upper-division and graduate students the opportunity to improve their writing and speaking about scientific topics. Humanities majors will understand scientific debates and science majors will learn the rhetorical strategies commonly practiced in the humanities. Students will focus on writing and revising, and make multi-modal presentations to deliver their written work.
